

Marjorie Rambeau, the magician of "Cheating Cheaters," who turns a perfectly bad crook into a perfectly good detective.

Photo by Sarony.

Juanita Hansen, who beautifies the movies via the Fox route.

With the Approach of Autumn the Rialto Again Comes Into Its Own.

"Cheating Cheaters," at the Eltinge, is a succession of surprises, of which Marjorie Rambeau furnishes the chief. Photo by Sarony.

They call Marion Davies "the prettiest girl in the Follies. Judge for yourself. Photo by Len L. Hill.

June Caprice has golden hair, a pearly smile and a silvery voice. William Fox uses all but the voice in the movies.

Richard Walton Tully's play, "The Flame," just opened at the Lyric Theatre, has Violet Heming in a leading role. Photo by Sarony.

Peggy O'Neil, who helps "The Flame" burn brightly at the Lyric. Photo by Sarony.